PRESIDENT'S LETTER - *Martha Lutecki, 342-3212

Another busy year has begun with interesting programs and projects on the calendar. We want to thank all the wonderful people who helped to make our Society and Museum successful last year, and look forward to working with you this year.

At our February meeting, the Nominating Committee presented three additional members for the Board of Directors: Bernadette "Bernie" Dillon, Eugene "Gene" Sullivan, and Linda Cunningham, and George Law for the Finance Board to replace Don Goodrich. We are sorry to report that Don has resigned as he moved out of the area. We will greatly miss his expertise in financial matters and his knowledge of Portland's history. Although he'll be missed, he has promised to stay involved in some way or another.

If members would like to be more involved, the following committees invite you to join them:

Museum Committee- collects and catalogs artifacts
Exhibits-develops ideas for museum exhibits/displays
Docents-people with interest in/knowledge of town history able to work occasionally at museum
Historic Sites-oversees town historic buildings/sites, responds to demolition ordinances
Programs-arranges programs for monthly meetings

Refreshments-organizes refreshments for programs/openings
Membership-collects/transmits dues, maintains membership records
Publications-publicity, quarterly newsletter
Tag Sale-works toward successful May Town-Wide Sale Day
Callander House-oversees maintenance of museum/grounds
Ways & Means-develops and implements fundraising actions

Persons interested in joining any of the above committees should call me at 860-342-3212 or email me at <mlutecki@yahoo.com>. I also welcome your suggestions for exhibits and programs.

We hope to see you at the Museum and at our programs this year!

The Museum Christmas show was open every Sunday in December drawing many visitors from near and far.

The 2007 Historical Society Calendar "Yesterday & Today" Tour Four Centuries of Portland Homes

The theme of this year's calendar is the Historical Society's October 22, 2006 House Tour, which featured eleven buildings in Portland, one 18th century, five 19th century, two 20th century and three 21st century structures. These included eight residences, two homes converted to commercial use, and a church. For the 12th month, the Betty Keser Scott Garden at the Callander House Museum was chosen. The centerfold of the calendar features photos of exhibits by five local artists and collectors which were on display at 329 Main Street on the day of the tour.

Open House Tour - Sue Anderson, Chairperson

Thanks for your wonderful response to our Open House Tour event! It was a huge success, and with your support of it, we raised approximately $6,200 to benefit the programs of the Portland Historical Society and the operation of the Society's Museum. Our ticket sales totaled 362.

A very special thank you to all of the homeowners who graciously opened their homes, the exhibitors for allowing us to showcase their crafts and collectibles, the committee and docents for all of their hard work, the garden clubs and local florists and garden centers for their generous donations, Business and Legal Reports of Old Saybrook for the printing of the tickets, Ed Richardson, for identifying the Notable Trees featured on the tour, the bakers in the High School class for their cookie donations, the Trinity Church for the facilities that were loaned to us, and to everyone who supported and helped with this event.

It was indeed a wonderful afternoon, (even the weather was in our favor), when the historic town of Portland showed off its old and new homes to visitors from every corner of the state and beyond. We even attracted visitors from Florida and Rhode Island!

Thanks, again, to everyone who helped make this such a memorable event!

ATTENTION!
DOLL HOUSES AND TRAINS ARE COMING!

Holiday opening, Sunday, Dec. 3, 2 to 4 pm
(Houses for display? Call museum at 342-5455)

NOTES. . .

Pat Crowther, our volunteer Callander House maintenance official, has repainted the garage and is now replacing the entry porch plastic and screens with attractive storm and screen windows. He has also been overseeing the removal of the in-ground oil tank and its replacement with an above ground model that meets modern codes and is in the style of the house.

Museum Gifts

When Hyime Paley heard about our shortage of mannequins for the wedding gown display, he devoted a day to search out discarded ones, and presented us with 3 more forms for our display.

Museum Visit

Beverly Montgomery and Linda Juliani of the Madison Historical Society visited the museum recently to return to Portland the diary of former resident C. N. Murray, which was found in their collection. Four small books dated 1868, 1871, 1872 and 1873 record his days. Murray was the Master of a schooner in the coastal trade. The diaries contain details of his freight: coal, lumber, brownstone and hay, ship condition and the all important sailing weather. There are many familiar ports listed, and where the next load might be from. We believe Murray lived at the corner of Prospect and Summer Streets

Docent News - Mary Ann Dolan

At the end of September I had the opportunity to attend a Docent Symposium held at the Long Hill Estate in Middletown, organized by their docent group, and funded by a grant from the Connecticut Humanities Council.

Volunteers from over 20 local museums attended, and many ideas for increasing the number of volunteers and making them comfortable with their duties were shared.

One idea was to involve students in the museum docent group. Some local museums have created docent teams that include middle school or high school students along with a parent or grandparent. They found that the adults were able to share their experience of growing up in the town, and the students benefited from the interaction.

It's also a unique experience to add to those college applications! If you or someone you know is interested in this sort of opportunity, please call me at 342-0594.

PORTLAND HISTORY

Thomas R. Pickering (1831-1895)

Inspired by a question from a Canadian about Portland's "important Thomas R. Pickering", we offer this Beers' Biographical Record, published in 1908.

The Honorable Thomas Richard Pickering, whose death occurred February 21, 1895, was a citizen of prominence in the State of Connecticut and of National reputation, a man whose force of character and true worth brought him to the front. His birth took place in Manchester, England, the family being of Norman ancestry. His father, Thomas Pickering, a mechanical engineer of Manchester, came to the United States late in the 1830s, his family, consisting of his wife and two children, Thomas R. and Mary, following him to this country. Mary is now the widow of William Marshall, and resides at Meriden, Ct. The mother died soon after arrival in the new home, and later Mr. Pickering (Sr.) remarried, William H. Pickering of Hartford being a son of that union.

For some time Thomas Pickering (Sr.) followed mechanical engineering, but he finally went into the tea and coffee business in New York. His son and namesake was sent to the best schools his father could afford, and as a youth worked for his father in the store, but this did not agree with him, as his natural bent was toward mechanics.

[Pickering's first enterprise was the manufacture of velocipedes (bicycles). He was the first designer to add wire spokes to the wheels. As a result, his light cycles were very popular.]

Since those days, his great invention, the Pickering Governor, has been known and is in use all over the world. The first model was formed by the youth at his bench, with the crudest of tools, and can be seen in the Patent Office in Washington, with the spring that, for want of a better, the young inventor took from a pair of hoops like those worn by the women of that time. This invention proved a success, a company for its manufacture was formed in Portland, the inventor being made president thereof, and thus he became known over the country; the Pickering governor is now in use on almost every steam engine manufactured. [(Model in Callander Museum). His brick factory still stands on Pickering Street.]

In 1876 Mr. Pickering was selected by the government as a commissioner to the Centennial Exposition, and later was sent to the Paris Exposition, representing the company and his country with the greatest credit. Without regard to politics he was again selected, when a commissioner was required to be sent to Australia, and to Vienna, Mr. Pickering being considered the best qualified for the position. During the progress of the Centennial Exposition, Mr. Pickering issued a pamphlet on Connecticut exhibits that attracted widespread attention and increased his fame. When the great Cotton Centennial was held at New Orleans, he was appointed assistant commissioner. He was decorated by the Emperor of Austria with the Order of Franz Joseph, and by the President of France with the cross of the Legion of Honor. Mr. Pickering never sought political honors, but was elected to the Senate in the fall preceding his death.

Thomas R. Pickering first married Miss Elizabeth Bird, a native of Hunterdon, N. J., who died in 1865, the mother of two children: Adelaide, the first of these, died in 1890; she married Dr. George Lunney, of Washington, D.C., who died when his child was but three years old, and the child was adopted by the present Mrs. Pickering, who had his name changed to T. Lunney Pickering; Joseph B., the second, died of typhoid fever, which he contracted at the Centennial Exposition, in 1876, when eighteen years old.

[A memorial to Pickering's daughter Adelaide, the tower clock on Trinity Church, is still visible.]

The second marriage of Mr. Pickering was to Miss Myra Davis, a native of New Jersey, who now lives in Portland in the elegant home (337 Main Street) where she and her late husband had delighted to dispense a generous hospitality, for the Senator had hosts of friends all over the country and also in foreign lands.

Pickering was a member of many clubs and associations. Quiet and unostentatious in his manner of living, he was most liberal and gave abundantly to every charitable enterprise. Portland lost, in the death of Senator Thomas R. Pickering, one of its most useful and distinguished citizens.

[Pickering's funeral was a major occasion in the state. The service at Trinity Church drew the Connecticut Governor, and the entire State Senate. Three hundred folding chairs had to be provided for the service. His family plot is in Trinity Cemetery.]
